Instructional Services Librarian

University of Northern Colorado,

Greeley, Colorado

Salary: Starting at $48,000

Status: Full-time

Posted: 03/10/14

Deadline: 03/31/14

Instructional Services Librarian

The Libraries at the University of Northern Colorado (UNC) [library.unco.edu] seeks a creative, enthusiastic individual for the position of Instructional Services Librarian and Assistant Professor of University Libraries, position number F99925. This is a contract-renewable position that reports to the Head of Instructional Services.

The Instructional Services Department is committed to facilitating dynamic, learner-centered experiences for all students as part of its innovative approach to curriculum design. The successful candidate is responsible for teaching face-to-face and online as part of a well-established, robust credit-bearing information literacy program. Instructional Services librarians develop and deliver one-time, course-integrated instruction sessions to undergraduate students using innovative, active-learning techniques. The individual in this position will engage students by creating web guides, tutorials, and digital learning objects. The successful candidate will participate in assessment to support the continuous improvement of the instructional program and demonstrate the Libraries’ impact on student learning to stakeholders. The individual will also contribute to various outreach activities to cultivate campus and community partnerships. This position offers opportunities for innovation and professional growth in areas that may include curriculum development, special programming, liaison activities, collection development, and classroom assessment. The successful candidate must have strong interpersonal skills and be able to communicate effectively, work collaboratively with the instruction team and other departments, and prioritize work assignments within a vibrant and stimulating environment.

Additional information about the Instructional Services Department can be found at http://library.unco.edu/instruct/index.htm.

REQUIRED:

Earned master’s degree from an ALA-accredited library school or program by start date

Experience teaching in an academic library or higher education setting

Familiarity with information literacy theory, practice, or assessment

PREFERRED:

Experience teaching credit-bearing courses
Experience developing credit-bearing information literacy courses or online modules

Experience implementing or facilitating outreach activities to stakeholders

Experience with creating digital learning objects or tutorials

Salary minimum: $48,000. The starting date is July 1, 2014 (negotiable).

Screening of applications will begin on March 31, 2014. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. Applicants must complete an online application form and attach a letter of application, highlighting suitability for the position, and curriculum vitae, including names of three references with their mail and email addresses and telephone numbers.

For questions contact Joan Lamborn, Associate Dean, University Libraries, 970-351-2601, joan.lamborn@unco.edu.